

DATA SHEET

Usage-Based Monitoring

Complete Visibility and Control of Your AlertSite Account

Only pay for what you use

Use custom-detailed reports to manage your account

Reconfigure your plans on-demand

Rollover unused measurements

Add or remove services as needed

Usage-based monitoring gives you unprecedented control of your AlertSite® account. Pay only for measurements you use. Recalibrate your monitoring intervals at any time. Try different products and services on an as-needed basis. Gradually design a plan that matches your requirements over time. Increase or decrease your daily monitoring rates based on seasonal changes and fluctuations. Scale up your services incrementally as you grow your business.

Usage-based monitoring also means that you can “rollover” up to 20% of unused prepaid measurement credits from one year to the next. The benefits to you, our customer, is that you can keep unused measurements and use them when it's convenient for you.

Detailed Usage Reports provide information about measurements purchased, used, and remaining in your account, broken down into time periods you specify. Reports are available on-demand and enable you to manage your AlertSite account with informed precision.

Key Features

- Flexibility to upgrade and modify your service plan at any time
- Cost determined by usage, not locked-in plan rates
- Unused measurements carried over
- Detailed Usage Reports tailored to your needs
- Opportunity to sample different services with minimal commitment
- No hidden costs for any services or plans
- No monthly minimum or maximum usage requirements; YOU control your account!

Maximum Flexibility and Efficiency

Usage based monitoring permits you to modify your AlertSite® account at any time. “Dial it down” when you require fewer measurements. “Turn it up” if you need more. You can change, on-demand, the number of measurements taken per day, as well as the services you utilize, including Web site performance monitoring, business transaction monitoring, Service Level Agreement monitoring, server availability, and E-mail monitoring.

Monitor from as many locations as you need. Choose from locations all over the world, or focus on your primary customer service areas. Add or subtract locations as necessary, as you go. The following are examples of simple business friendly adjustments you can make whenever you choose:

- Seasonal Business: If your business is seasonal—say, highest during summers—change your monitoring schedule according to the season.
- Holiday time: Move from 15-minute monitoring to monitoring every 1 or 2 minutes, to ensure maximum availability for e-commerce holiday shoppers.
- Maintenance windows: Turn off monitoring temporarily so that you aren't paying for service during scheduled downtime.

- Short Term Needs: Purchase the services that you anticipate you will need in the short-term, and enjoy the flexibility of having an entire year to utilize those services.
- Business Subsidiaries: Share a single pool of measurement credits, or let each subsidiary manage their own credits.
- Promotional Sales or Items: Increase monitoring frequency to ensure seamless availability during special promotional periods.

AlertSite performance advisors can help you estimate what level and types of services you will need initially.

Only pay for measurements you specify. If you have prepaid for more than you need over time, you can rollover up to 20% of your unused measurements into the next year.

Detail Usage Reporting

Usage based monitoring includes on-demand detailed Usage Reports, which document the services and number of measurement credits you've used and how many you have remaining in your account. Reports can be customized to show the average number of measurements taken per day for any time period you specify. The more you know, the easier it is to manage your account.

Join our more than 2,300 customers

Join more than 2,300 satisfied AlertSite customers across virtually every industry around the world, you'll be in good company. We count some of the biggest names among our clients, including: AT&T, Honda, Intel, Symantec and many others, all of whom put their trust in AlertSite's 24/7 hosted services.

If you are not yet a member of the AlertSite customer family, we invite you to contact us today for a complimentary, no-obligation assessment of your Web site requirements. Call 877.302.5378 now, or go to www.AlertSite.com to sign up for your free trial immediately.

